International Relations Theory and Security, and U.S.-European Foreign and Security Policy & Policymaking

Ph.D., University of Chicago, 1961 (Political Science)

Professor Kolodziej is Emeritus Research Professor Political Science and the founder and former Director of the Center for Global Studies at the University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign (2000-2016). He is also a co-founder and served as the first Director of the Program in Arms Control, Disarmament, and International Security (1983-1986, 2010-16). [ACDIS later changed to Arms Control, Domestic & International Security]

At the University of Illinois, Professor Kolodziej has served as Head of the Department of Political Science (1972-77). He was previously a faculty member at the University of Virginia (1962-72) and served as Chair of the Department of Government and Foreign Affairs (1967-69).

Professor Kolodziej has written or edited twenty books and monographs on security, foreign policy, and international relations and global theory, including five single-authored volumes: The Uncommon Defense and Congress: 1945-63 (Ohio State, 1966), 30,000 copies of Chapter 1 circulated by the House of Representatives for the National Collegiate debate topic of 1968-69; French International Policy under De Gaulle and Pompidou: The Politics of Grandeur (Cornell, 1974), nominated for a Pulitzer Prize; Making and Marketing Arms: The French Experience and Its Implications for the International System (Princeton, 1987), cited by Choice as one of the major contributions to political science in 1987; Security and International Relations (Cambridge University Press, 2005), translated into Chinese and Romanian; and Governing Globalization: Challenges for Democracy and Global Society (Rowman-Littlefield, 2016). He has recently published Global Governance: Evaluating the Liberal Democratic, Chinese, and Russian Solutions (Routledge, 2022).

Professor Kolodziej has contributed more than 140 articles to peer reviewed professional journals and chapters to edited volumes. He has consulted on security and global politics to many government units, corporations, and NGOs and has served on numerous editorial boards, notably International Studies Quarterly and European Security, and reviewed multiple volumes for top university and commercial presses. He has also served on a committee of the American Political Science Association for the award of the best doctoral dissertation in international relations. The President of Harvard President also invited Professor Kolodziej to advise on the proposed appointment of a senior professor in Political Science.

Professor Kolodziej was appointed a Fellow in Global Governance at La Trobe University, Melbourne, Australia in 1999 and a Visiting Professor of Political Economy at Senshu University, Tokyo, in 2001. He was also appointed Visiting Professor of International Security at Aoyama Gakuin University, Tokyo, in 2006 and Visiting Professor of EU-US Relations at Hebrew University, Jerusalem, in 2007. In 2008, he was appointed Visiting Lecturer at Beijing University.

Professor Kolodziej has lectured (in English and French) at universities, research centers, and governmental agencies in over 40 countries on all continents. He has lectured in China at Renmin, Beijing, Shanghai, and Fudan Universities, Nanyang University in Singapore, and at universities in India, Pakistan, Latin America, and Africa.

Professor Kolodziej has received many grants and awards, notably from the Ford, Rockefeller, and MacArthur Foundations, the National Science Foundation, the National Endowment for the Humanities, NATO, Smithsonian's Woodrow Wilson Center, Fulbright, U.S. Institute of Peace, IREX, Deutscher Akademischer Austauschdienst (DAAD), the Social Science Research Council, and the US Department of Education (Title VI).

Professor Kolodziej was also named a University Scholar and was appointed on two occasions to the Center for Advanced Study at the University of Illinois. He is also a grantee of UIUC's Chancellor's Initiative program, resulting in an edited volume, critically evaluating the foreign and strategic policies of the second Bush administration, published by the University of Georgia press.

Under Professor Kolodziej's directorship, the Center for Global Studies (CGS) was awarded $7.0 million in competitive grants from the U.S. Department of Education between 2001 and 2016. CGS was also designated a National Resource in Global Studies in four successive national competitions among major research universities. Additional grants of $1.6 million for global and security studies were received from U.S. Department of State and the Social Science Research Council. As the first ACDIS Director, the Program was awarded an unrestricted grant of $300,000 by the MacArthur Foundation to foster research, teaching, and outreach in Security studies.

At the University of Illinois, Professor Kolodziej has received the Political Science Department's Pi Sigma Alpha Award for excellence in undergraduate teaching, the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences Outstanding Teaching Award, and the all-campus Burlington Northern Foundation Faculty Achievement Award for teaching and scholarship. He offered all-campus undergraduate and graduate courses in global governance and global politics and security and has taught in the Honors and Civic Leadership programs at UIUC.

Professor Kolodziej is a member of numerous professional societies, including the American Political Science Association, International Political Science Association, International Studies Association, International Institute for Strategic Studies, and the New York Council on Foreign Relations.

Professor Kolodziej is married to Antje Heberle-Tönnies Kolodziej; four sons, nine grandchildren.
